

INFOGRAPHIC BY JOSEPH WHARTON
Data source: American Society for Engineering Education

Doctoral Degrees

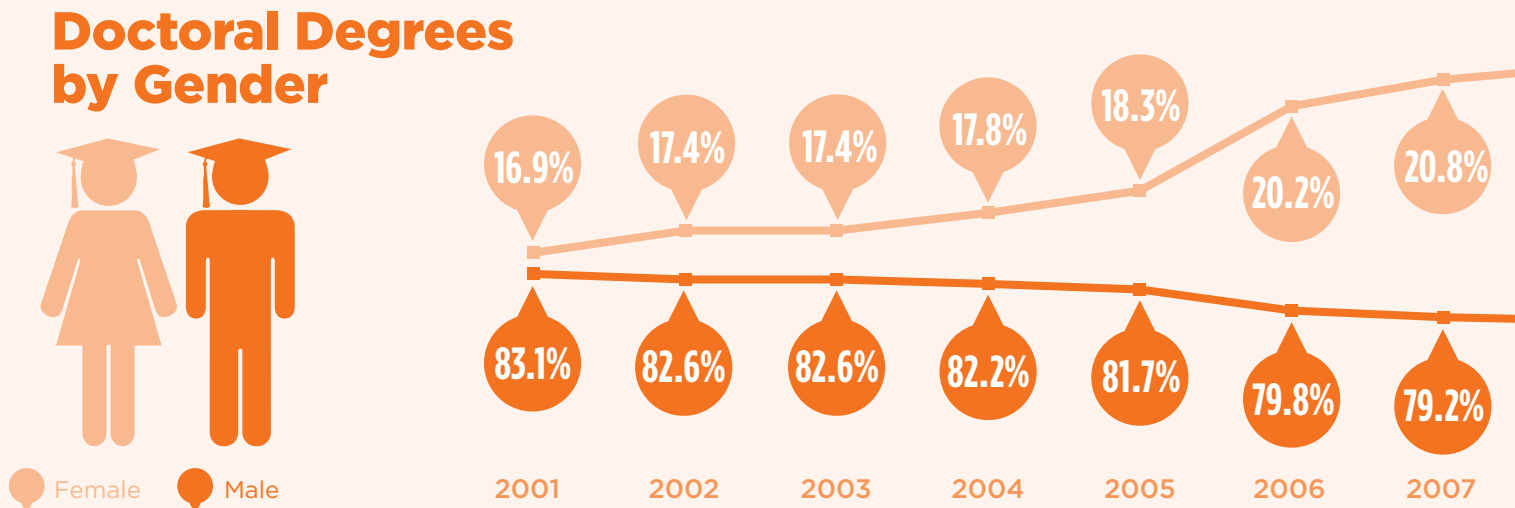

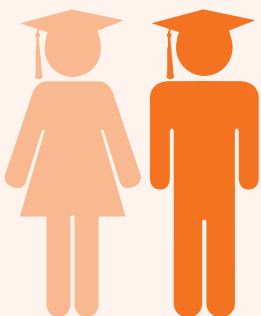

Doctoral Degrees by Residency

Foreign National Domestic

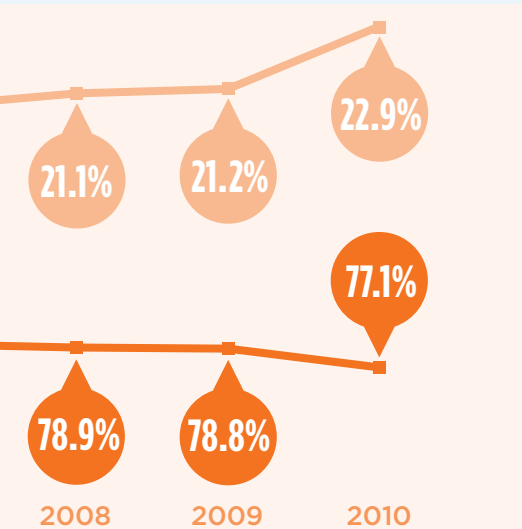

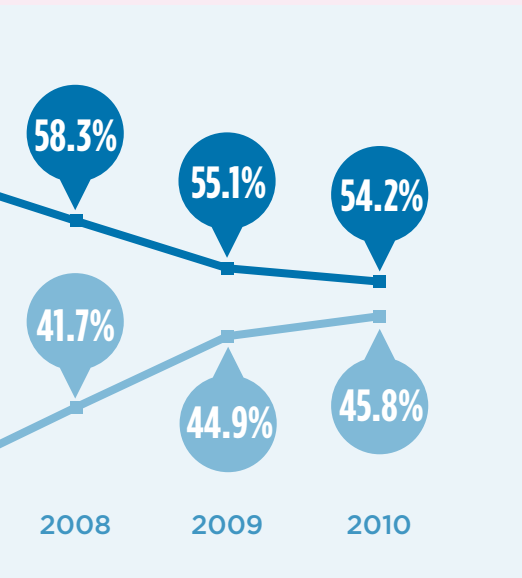

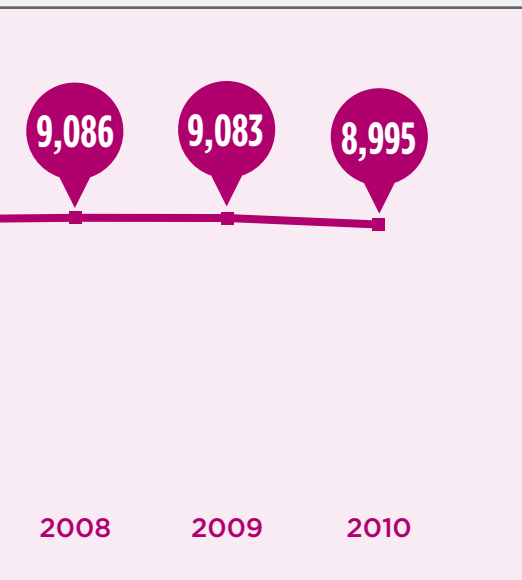

Doctoral Degrees by Gender

Female Male

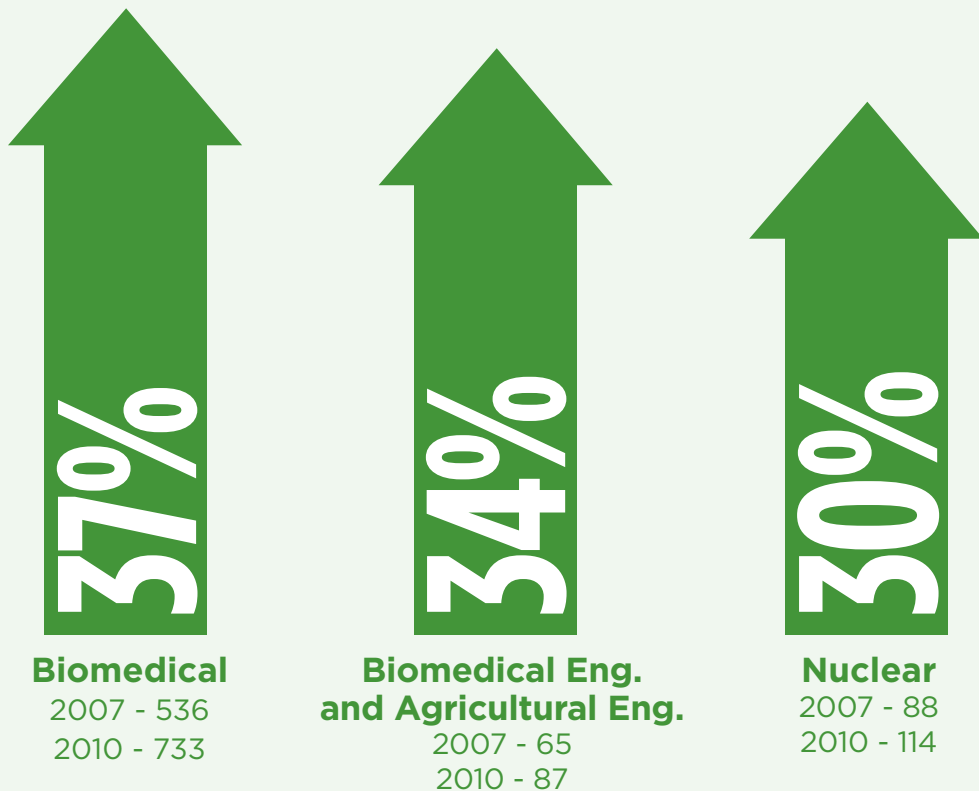

Changing Ph.D. Landscape

Engineering doctorates plateaued over the past four years after growing by almost 50 percent earlier in the decade. Yet, the composition of degree recipients is changing. The percentage of degrees awarded to women is at an all-time high, while the share of degrees awarded to nonresident aliens has declined by 12 percent since 2006. The data also indicate divergent trends in several fields during this time.

Notable Trends: 2007 - 2010

Increases

Decreases

